“I’m just so pleased about the results and keen to share – having an ‘itchy’ dog can feel like you’re fighting an endless battle; quite often what you might think will help can actually make things so much worse!”

Lisa Mortimor

Provilan Allergen Free Spray

Introduction: The Challenge of Managing Chronic Skin Irritation

Molly, a rescue dog, presented with severe itching, red patches, and flaky skin localised around her back, tail, and undercarriage. Her symptoms, believed to be caused by an allergy (potentially to flea saliva), led to constant scratching and hair loss. Previous treatments – including colloidal silver, antihistamines, antiseptics, flea treatments, and a single-protein diet – provided temporary relief but failed to address the root cause.

Her owner, Lisa, was determined to avoid chemicals, antibiotics, and steroids due to Molly’s history of neurological sensitivity to these treatments. She sought a natural, non-invasive solution to reduce Molly’s suffering and prevent secondary infections from self-inflicted wounds.

Treatment Protocol: Incorporating Probiotic Therapy

Lisa introduced Provilan Probiotic Allergen-Free Spray into Molly’s care routine. The spray was applied three times daily to affected areas, including her back, tail, ear flaps and undercarriage. Application Techniques:

- Due to Molly’s jumpiness, Lisa applied the spray using saturated cotton wool and gently brushed it through her coat.
- Molly’s bedding was also washed and sprayed to reduce allergen exposure.

Lisa complemented this regimen with oral probiotics. She also used Provilan Probiotic Shampoo during baths to further support Molly’s skin microbiome.

Results: Significant Improvement in Skin Health

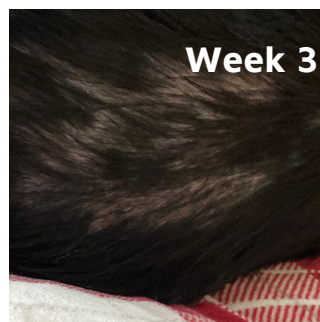

Before

"Her skin is sore, dry, itchy, red with hair loss"

Week 1

"Her skin is less red; hair has started to re-grow"

Week 3

"Her skin is a lot less angry and irritated"

Week 10

"Her coat and skin have improved so much"

Six months later, Molly’s coat is healthy and hair regrowth is evident. Her skin shows no signs of the chronic irritation, redness and itching that plagued her for years. Lisa now uses the spray only occasionally if there is a minor flare-up.
